MAGNET CLEARS WINDPIPE.

Removes a Screw Swallowed by Boy Three Years Ago.

Cincinnati.—Sherick Bobb, six years old, swallowed a screw one inch long three years ago. It slid into his windpipe, and gradually worked down to a position where it was impossible to reach it, causing the youngster intense pain.

The baffled family physician called in Dr. John Ranly, an eye specialist. He suggested the use of a magnet.

This was agreed to, and in less than five minutes the screw was removed. The lad is recovering.

MILLIONAIRE URGES A SAUERKRAUT DIET

Patten of Chicago Returns from Europe With Our Eating Troubles Settled.

Chicago.—The American diet will have to be reconstructed. We must completely revise our habits of eating. Beans, peas, rice and even sauerkraut will have to form a larger part of the day to day menu and there will have to be at least a semi-boycott on meat.

James A. Patten, multi-millionaire board of trade man, came home from Europe convinced that drastic measures such as the above will be necessary if the high cost of living is to be reduced. Patten spent two months touring Norway, France and Germany.

"What a man eats is largely what a man thinks he has to have," said Patten at his Evanston home. "We as a nation think we have got to have meat and a lot of it. We can change that idea if we would. It is all a matter of habit. The German thinks he must have his sauerkraut and he declares it is fine. The Italian thinks he must have his macaroni and he declares it is fine. It is much cheaper to have the sauerkraut habit and the macaroni habit than to have the meat habit."

"Of course there are other ways of lowering the cost of living. Personally I am inclined to think that the tariff on farm products should be reduced, not merely to cheapen food-stuffs, but to insure our getting enough food. I think the time is coming when we shall not raise enough livestock for our own consumption."

STOLEN SERMON FILLS THIEF WITH REMORSE

Pastor's Written Admonition Hits Mark He Never Hoped It Would Reach.

Philadelphia.—The Rev. Dr. Hugh McBride had been rather disappointed in his sermon of two Sunday's ago. It had not seemed to make much impression on the congregation of the Disston Memorial church at Tacoma. So when the sermon was stolen with his suitcase while he was making a purchase in a department store the other day he missed it least of all his belongings.

Now he is happy that he wrote that sermon. For he received a letter from a girl who had stolen it, and learned that the thief had experienced a change of heart as a result of the discourse.

The letter was signed, "A Heart-Broken Young Woman," and she wrote:

"I read your beautiful sermon and was overcome with remorse. I had a good mother, but my father was a worthless man. I never had a chance to learn the difference between right and wrong, but when I read your sermon I knew."

"I am searching for work and when I get enough money, I will send the case to you. If you forgive me, please insert an advertisement in the newspapers."

Dr. McBride said he would like to know the identity of the young woman that he might get work for her.

DR. W. J. MCGEE WILLS BODY TO SCHOOL FOR STUDY

Philadelphia, Pa.—Dr. W. J. McGee, the noted scientist anthropologist, geologist, hydrologist and author who died at his home in Washington of cancer after an illness of several weeks, has willed his body to Professor Edward A. Spitzka of Jefferson college, in order that the noted alienist and pathologist may use it for dissection and to study the cancer cells and ascertain the cause of the disease.

It has not been uncommon for medical men to will their brains to science.

This is believed to be the first case on record where a scientist has given up his entire body to the cause of science.

Dr. McGee made many contributions to science and his work was known throughout the world. In 1888 he became geologist in the United States geological survey and spent seven years surveying and mapping 300,000 square miles in the southeast.

One of his most important works was the exploration of Tiburon island, Gulf of California, where he made a study of a savage tribe of people never before recorded. He then was ethnologist of the bureau of American ethnology which position he occupied for ten years, resigning in 1903 to become chief of the department of anthropology of the St. Louis exposition.

Later he was director of the St. Louis museum for two years, and in 1907 became secretary of the inland waterways commission, which position he held at the time of his death, as well as being an expert of the department of agriculture.

Dr. McGee never had a surname other than "W. J." and always signed and insisted that he be addressed by those initials without periods after them. He married in 1888 to a noted physician, Anita Newcomb, daughter of the late Professor Simon Newcomb, lecturer in hygiene at the University of California in Berkeley, Cal.
